FIREWALL SUNWARD OPS

We're going to need some extra sets of arms to help us with this project. Good thing I just finished growing some!

You were born human and raised in the canals of New York. In between freelance gigs and med student classes, you worked with a biohacking group that pursued various weird homebrew genetic experiments, but also made cheap drugs accessible to people that couldn't afford for-profit healthcare. When the conflict with the TITANS started, your group isolated and identified one of the first known exsurgent strains. Before you knew it, you were recruited and working with a global ad-hoc network of researchers and exiled spooks who were trying to prevent transhumanity's extinction. You lost that war, but escaped off-world thanks to what would eventually form into Firewall. You weren't born uplift, you just like the morph.

You think Sava takes the blunt-instrument approach a bit too much, but they let you do your job without too much shit. Hex is impervious to your infectious humor, but she's trustworthy, for a criminal. Qi is a riot, but you wish she wouldn't poke at you quite so much.
